It's Boring Being a Cat

Adam Bestwick & Chris Cady

Cat is bored being a cat. Maybe he'd quite like to be something different and exciting, like a lion, or a horse, or even a polar bear?!

Which sounds great until Dog bursts his bubble every time! Maybe being a cat isn't so bad after all?

A humorous rhyming book with a fun twist.

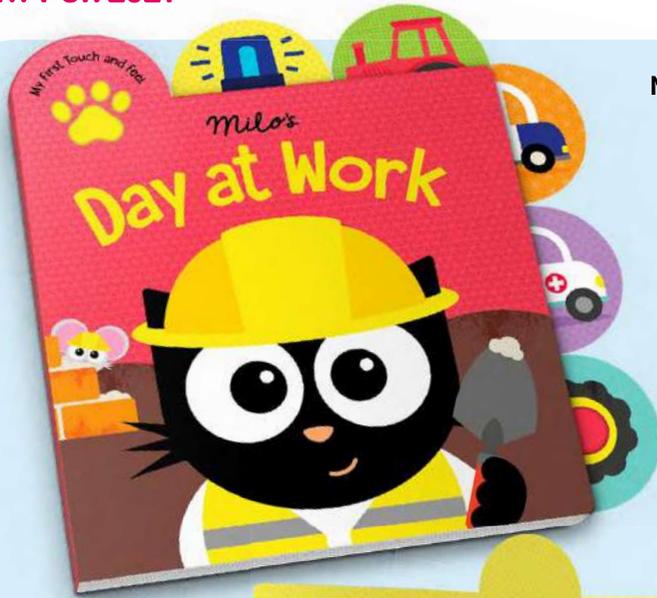

The Author

Adam Bestwick is a Wirral-based graphic designer with over 30+ years experience in the creative sector. Adam won the 'License This' award at Brand Licensing Europe 2014 with his funny creation 'RaNT!' and many of Adam's humour-based picture books have have been translated for overseas markets. His rhyming book The Bean Machine scooped gold at The Sheffield Children's Book Award 2017.

The Illustrator

Chris Cady has been involved in the publishing sector for nearly 15 years. Initially working within the greeting card industry before becoming a children's book illustrator, he has a varied portfolio of contemporary styles to draw on. When Chris is not drawing he's generally found jumping around on the trampoline with his three children.

Olive

Rowena Blyth

Meet Olive, the little elephant with a very big heart. She feels very, very small, and with very big friends, it's hard not to.

Olive was often overlooked by the other animals, and was determined to get noticed. As she goes about her day, she discovers that despite their large size, hippo, zebra and lion all have a problem that Olive can help with. Maybe mighty actions can come from even the smallest packages! The charming text is engaging, and the lesson about being yourself is valuable to young children who may be struggling with feeling very small themselves.

The Author/Illustrator

A graduate of Liverpool John Moores University in 2004, Rowena is a designer, illustrator and art director. She has 21 published books to date, including the award-winning ABC of the World, and Goodnight Hoot, My Incredible Knitting Nana, and The Hackney Martian.

She's also created a large series of popular books for her well-loved creations 'Milo' and the award-winning 'Give a Hoot'. Several of Rowena's books have been translated for the international market.

My Incredible Knitting Nana

Rowena Blyth

My Nana loves to knit. She also loves to help everybody and everything!

Nana is never without her knitting needles, and whenever she sees anything that needs a coat, hat, scarf or a blanket – then out comes her bag of wool. The problem is... she never knows when to stop!

This good intention soon escalates onto a global scale, but when it starts to rain, disaster strikes – everything begins to shrink and chaos descends!

An entertaining story of how the best of intentions can sometimes have catastrophic consequences!

The Author

Schoolgirl Lucy Moroney lived with her family on the Wirral Peninsula. The Spider and The Whale was her first book. The story was inspired by an incident with her Mum and a spider in the bathroom! Lucy's fantastic imagination and her warm sense of humour helped her fabricate this amusing tale.

In 2017, aged just 9, Lucy was diagnosed with Diffuse Intrinsic Pontine Glioma (DIPG) – a terminal, inoperable brain tumour which sadly took her life just short of her 10th birthday. Proceeds from the sale of this book will go towards Lucy's Pineapple Fund to help fund research into DIPG.

The Boy Who Switched Off The Sun

Paul Brown & Mark O'Hanlon

Marcel didn't just love ice cream, he was totally bonkers about the stuff! But the hot sunshine keeps spoiling his enjoyment by making it all drippy.

To avoid a melting mess, Marcel tries to eat it quickly (but that just gives him brain freeze) and in the dark (but that makes him scared) until one day he has an idea!

Escape from Zombie High

Adam Bestwick & Chris Cady

The only lesson now is survival!

No one ever went near Granite High Boarding School set deep within its dark forest estate. Once term had started and the giant iron gates were closed, no one entered, and no one left.

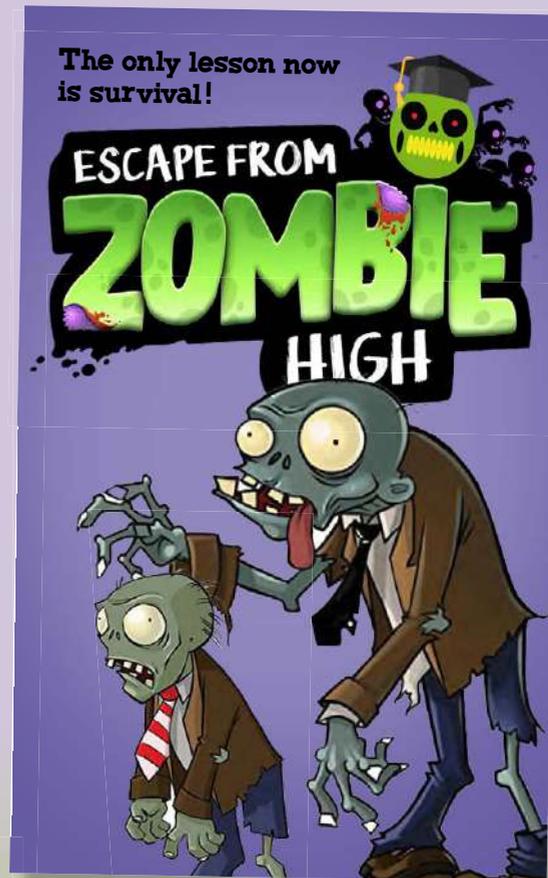

So, when Mackenzie Ryan knocked over some formula onto his Science teacher, Mr Smithers, (and totally zombified him), who then infected the entire staff room... no one was coming to the rescue!

First lesson: Survival. Dump Smithers outside the science block (before he becomes conscious again) and make a plan!

Second lesson: Maths. How quickly can one infected teacher multiply and infect the others? And how easy can we divide them, and more importantly, subtract them?!

Third lesson: Geography and orienteering. Can we navigate the cellars, attics, corridors and tunnels of Granite High to make it to the outside world?

Can the gang escape and get help before Smithers and the rest of the staff put 'kids' on the school menu? A classic kids-on-the-run game of cat and mouse where the only lesson now is survival!

When the Sky was too Low

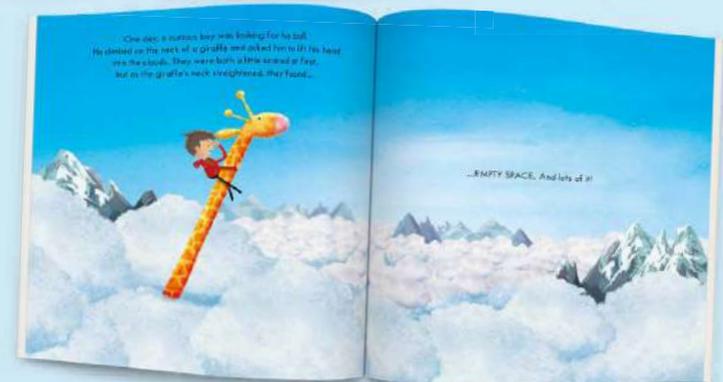

Adam Bestwick

Once upon a time, the sky wasn't high like it is today, it was annoyingly low. Clouds couldn't find their place, birds couldn't fly and adults had to bend and stoop whilst walking.

Needing to solve the problem before they become adults too, the children form a plan that not only lifts the sky to its rightful place, but creates the starry night sky in the process. A charming tale based on a native American Indian story from the Snohomish tribe about children having imaginative solutions.
